SEYMOUR'S PARLOUR

Potions & Punches

Seymour’s travels were a debauched affair and after months of partying hard he found himself searching for a mystical answer to his ailments. He became enthralled with Europe’s many medicine shows (montebank), ‘doctors’ who would ‘mount a bench’ to sell their magical, cure-all potions containing exotic ingredients.

On his return to drizzly London he decided that everyone was in need of these magic tonics and started working on recipes that used the ingredients he had brought back from his travels. Whether Seymour was the first Gentleman Charlatan is hotly debated but one thing you can say is that he made sure his potions and punches tasted damn good!
